Solidarity with the Palestinians: drop the charges against Alain Pojolat and all the accused activists

During the Israeli offensive against Gaza in July the French state took the unprecedented step of banning demonstrations in solidarity with the people of Gaza. The NPA took the lead in maintaining the call for the demonstrations to go ahead. This has led to charges against a leading NPA member who will appear in court on 22 October. The following appeal for solidarity has received wide support. To sign the petition click here.

This summer, the Israeli state led a new murderous offensive against the Gaza Strip. The 50 day balance sheet of bombardments and land operations is illuminating: nearly 2,200 dead, 11,000 wounded, tens of thousands of buildings completely or partly destroyed, more than 500,000 (30% of the population) displaced, and so on.

Revolted by these attacks, and by the position of the French authorities which, in the first days of the offensive, declared their support for the Israeli state before trying in vain to readjust their aim by timidly denouncing the violence of the bombardments, tens of thousands of people demonstrated, often, in many towns of France.

The Holland-Valls government, concerned not to annoy the Israeli government and anxiously noting the growth of the mobilization despite the summer period, then undertook to attack it frontally. It did not hesitate to make scandalous amalgams and to imply that solidarity with the Palestinians implied anti-semitism. Then, as that was not enough, the authorities decided to ban certain demonstrations, in particular in Paris.

We were many protesting against these bans, a serious blow, in the name of wrong reasoning, to elementary rights and fundamental freedoms. We were all the more revolted to learn that Alain Pojolat, member of the NPA, who was in contact, in the name of many organizations, with the Prefecture [police authority] for the Parisian demonstrations, has been summoned to court on October 22nd under pretext of having organized "illegal demonstrations".

We demand that the charges against Alain Pojolat be dropped immediately: to demonstrate is a right and even, in certain circumstances, a duty, and it is scandalous that anyone can be condemned for having wanted to exercise this right.

We ask moreover that charges against those who took part in or organized the demonstrations this summer, or who are involved in the Israeli boycott campaign, are dropped, and demand the withdrawal of the Alliot-Marie circular which criminalizes the boycott.

Solidarity is a right, not an offence!
